Registration Deadline March 25, 2026

If you are interested in becoming an American Daffodil Society (ADS) Daffodil Judge—or if you would simply like to learn more about growing and showing daffodils—plan to attend this informative and engaging training school presented by the American Daffodil Society.

This program is School III, the third of three ADS schools offered periodically around the country to train daffodil enthusiasts who wish to become accredited ADS judges. Attendance is also welcome for those who want to deepen their knowledge of daffodils without pursuing judging. The three schools do not need to be taken in consecutive order. Instruction will be provided by three highly experienced ADS-accredited judges who have grown daffodils for decades and have earned countless blue ribbons for their exceptional blooms at ADS shows nationwide.

Topics covered in School III include:

- Judging three stems of the same cultivar or species
- Judging species daffodils and collections
- Ethics and etiquette for exhibitors
- Judging daffodils in the Historic Section
- Exhibiting and judging seedlings
- Culture and judging of container-grown daffodils
- Judging and point scoring for historic, classic, and intermediate stems, collections, and multi-floreted stems
- A brief introduction to hybridizing and growing seedlings

Participants will have the opportunity to practice judging flowers—an invaluable experience for anyone planning to exhibit daffodils in future shows. This hands-on practice helps attendees better understand the characteristics judges consider when evaluating competition entries.

Students planning to take the exams to become student judges must have the Handbook for Growing, Exhibiting, and Judging Daffodils, which may be ordered in advance at: Publications - American Daffodil Society (daffodilusastore.org) For more information please contact Susan Schieffelin at sustps@aol.com
